FOREIGN VISITORS

Chinese Journalists

Thai Military Chief

April 21: General Chavalit Yongchaiyudh, Supreme Commander of the Royal Thai Forces and Commander in Chief (Royal Thai Army) arrived on a good will visit, and was welcomed by Deputy Minister for Defense and Chief of Staff of the Defence Services General Saw Maung. General Chavalit was accompanied by Thai Naval Commander Admiral Prapat Krisnachan, Thai Air Force Commander Chief Marshal Voranat Apichari, Thai Army Chief of Staff General Sunthorn Kongsompong, Permanent Foreign Ministry Secretary Mr. Kosol Sinthuwanon, Thai Ambassador to Burma Mr. Tongchan Jotikasthira, and a 150 member delegation.

Later, General Chavalit called on Prime Minister U Maung Maung Kha, and on General Saw Maung, and there were talks between members of the Thai delegation and Burmese officials. The delegation visited the Shwedagon Pagoda and in the afternoon returned to Bangkok. (WPD 4/22)

U.S. Energy Secretary

April 21: United States Secretary for Energy John S. Herriton, accompanied by his wife and by Assistant Secretary of Energy for International Affairs David B. Waller, arrived and was welcomed by Minister for Energy U Sein Tun, who hosted a dinner at the guest house of the Syriam Oil Refinery. (WPD 4/22) // April 22: He met with Foreign Minister U Ye Goung, toured the Shwedagon Pagoda and National Museum, and departed in the evening. (WPD 4/23)

Australian Veterans

April 22: A ten-member delegation from the War Veterans Organization of Australia, accompanied by Australian Ambassador Christopher Leslie Lamb, called on U Myint Maung, Chairman of the Burma War Veterans Organization. (WPD 4/23)

Bangladesh President

April 26: Bangladesh President Hussain Muhammad Ershad arrived on a State Visit, accompanied by his wife and by Foreign Minister Humayun Rasheed Chowdhury, Minister for Shipping A.K.M. Mayeedul Islam, Members of Parliament Mohammad Korban Ali and Mahmundul Islam Chowdhury, Ambassador to Burma A.Z.M. Enayetulla Khan, Mr. A.K.M. Mosharraf Hossain, Secretary, Ministry of Industries, and Foreign Ministry Director-General Mabbubul Huq. They were met at the airport by President U San Yu and other Burmese officials.

Later President Ershad called on President U San Yu, who hosted a dinner in his honor where speeches were exchanged.

President U San Yu welcomed President Ershad warmly, expressing the hope that the visit "will serve to further strengthen and enhance the traditional and friendly relations happily existing between us, leading to wider co-operation between our two countries."

President Ershad recalled his visit five years ago, and noted that the two countries "are bound by immutable ties of geography." He remembered the visits to Bangladesh by U Ne Win in April 1974 and May 1979, and President U San Yu's visit in Nov. 1986. He took the occasion "to pay my special tribute to the elder statesman and great leader Chairman U Ne Win for his outstanding contributions to the ... promotion...of friendship, goodwill, and cooperation between our two neighbourly countries," and lauded the efforts of the BSPP "to bring about an all-round socio-economic development in Burma."

On the international scene, he cited Bangladesh's cooperation in the South Asian Association for Regional Cooperation (SAARC) launched in Dec. 1985.

Begum Raushan Ershad, the President Ershad's wife, called on Daw Than Shein, wife of President U San Yu. The Bangladesh Minister of Shipping called on Minister for Transport and Communications U Sein Ya. (WPD 4/27)

Apr. 27: The two Presidents held talks, and President Ershad visited the Shwedagon Pagoda (donating US$2,000 and four carpets) and the Central Agricultural Development Training Center at Zayatkwin village, Hlegu Township. In the evening the Bangladesh Ambassador gave a dinner. Begum Raushan Ershad visited the Residential Nursery and Girls Training School on Dubern Road.

14 Bangladeshis, held as illegal immigrants, were released and will be handed to their country on Apr. 28. (WPD 4/28)

Apr. 28: President Ershad and his entourage departed, after visiting the No. 3 Garment Factory and oil refinery in Syriam. Mrs. Ershad visited the Zoo. A joint communique said Bangladesh and Burma had agreed to exchange trade delegations, and to the exchange of scholars, students, and cultural teams. Meetings of the Burma-Bangladesh Maritime Boundary Delimitation "would be resumed as early as possible." U San Yu was invited to visit Bangladesh at a convenient time, and accepted. (WPD 4/29)

vii. Coca leaves - 100 grams
viii. Cocaine - 3 grams
ix. The responsible Minister may from time to time declare other materials to be narcotic drugs and prescribe limits of possession."

Text of Allowance Law
The translated text of the operative sections of the Act to Amend the People's Representation Allowance Law, Law 2 of 1988, signed March 22, 1988, is as follows (courtesy of Mr. L.E. Bagshawe):

"Section 2: The following shall be substituted for Section 33 of the People's Representation Allowance Law:
33. People's representatives who are entitled to receive an honorarium or allowances:
a. if they are removed from their responsibilities under any law or by-law, or if they cease to hold or resign from their position, will not be entitled to receive the honorarium or allowances;
b. if they are temporarily suspended from office, will be entitled to receive the honorarium and allowances at the rate of 50% for the period of suspension;
c. if their suspension ends with their return to their original duties, they will be entitled to receive the honorarium and allowances at the full rate for the period of suspension.

"Section 3. The following shall be substituted for Section 36 of the Peoples' Representation Allowances Law:
36. Those who have been appointed by the Council of State to act temporarily as People's Representatives will be entitled to receive an honorarium and allowances proportional to their period of office."

Allowance Law
Mar. 22: Secretary of the Council of State U Sein Lwin presented the Bill Amending the People's Representation Allowance Law to the Fourth Pyithu Hluttaw. Under present law, members of People's Councils or People's Council Organs continue to receive allowances and gratuities even though temporarily suspended, or temporarily assigned duties, by the Council of State. This is costing more and more money.

During the First (Pyithu Hluttaw) tenure, one State, 51 township and 7 ward/village-tract level people were suspended, and received over Ky 290,000 in allowances. During the Second, two state/division, 59 township, and 46 ward/village tract level people were suspended and received Ky 530,000. During the Third, 97 township and 173 ward/village tract level people were suspended and received Ky 930,000. During the first two years of the Fourth, 1 state, 29 township, and 65 ward/village tract level people were suspended and received Ky 280,000. Periods of suspension have ranged from one month to three years and nine months.

Section 2 of the bill provides that:
--recalled, suspended, or resigned representatives shall not receive allowances and gratuities.
--temporarily suspended representatives shall receive 50%.
--if the suspension is voided, they shall receive allowances for the full period.

Section 3 provides that representatives temporarily assigned duties shall receive allowances and gratuities. (WPD 4/1)

President Reports Back

Apr. 20: President U San Yu, Pyithu Hluttaw member for Bahan 1, reported back to his constituents on the last two Pyithu Hluttaw sessions. The following are highlights:

Energy: "...because of the fall in crude oil production year after year, machine oil cannot be supplied sufficiently.... As short-term measures, exploring...drilling ...and laying of pipe lines activities are being extended.... Natural gas is being used instead of petroleum. It is being turned into methanol and used. This year the production of gas increased and 78 percent of this volume could be used in place of machine oil. Crude oil will be imported with the surplus fund of projects being implemented with foreign loans.... As a long-term measure, the existing oil fields will be renovated and new oil fields will be explored with foreign loans and expertise."

Foreign Exchange: "This year commodities could not be exported as targeted and there has been decline in our foreign exchange earnings...this has affected domestic production due to inavailability of raw materials and spare parts.... To cover the reduced earnings in rice export, as domestic consumption is given priority, timber, minerals, fish, and prawns are being sold. Moreover, broken rice and pulse are also being sold." Agricultural Decontrol: "With a view to increasing production...all crops, except some industrial raw materials, were decontrolled beginning with the 1987 harvest time. So, peasants and citizens who are private entrepreneurs can now trade freely in keeping with rules and regulations.... After crops including rice were decontrolled, we have created conditions permitting private entrepreneurs to engage in foreign trade."

BSPP General Secretary U Aye Ko, on behalf of the President, summarized the legislation passed by the October and March Pyithu Hluttaw sessions. Notably, he discussed the amendment of the Narcotics Drug Law, providing that possession of given quantities of drugs shall be considered as intent to sell, and providing increased penalties.

U Aye Ko also summarized the annual economic and social report. On the international scene, he noted that: "Till last year Burma had regularly repaid foreign debts since it attained independence. This year, although the export incomes decreased, foreign debts are still being repaid but with much difficulty. For these reasons, Burma got itself listed as one of the least developed countries and arrangements have been made for dealing with most of the debts."

Questions were asked about the shortage of coins and One Kyat notes, and of textbooks.

Coins: U Aye Ko, speaking for the President, said that from 1984 to Feb. 1988, 22.6 million One Kyat coins, 172.56 million One Kyat notes, and 41.1 other coins had been issued. Steps have been taken to issue 1.5 million 50 pya and 1.5 million One Kyat coins in April, and equal numbers in May. 10,000 kyat in coins is being distributed daily by the Union of Burma Bank. "Besides this, K 15 worth of coins per person is being exchanged daily." The shortage "was caused by unscrupulous persons who use various means to cause difficulties even though small change is being distributed abundantly for the people's convenience."

Textbooks: U Aye Ko said "a co-ordination committee for printing and distributing textbooks has been formed...so that efforts can be made to get sufficient textbooks and stationery in time." Nevertheless, "students are faced with difficulties in buying textbooks. It has been learnt that textbooks are in the hands of black-marketeers and students have to pay exhorbitant prices to buy them." (WPD 4/21)

Other Pyithu Hluttaw members, including BSPP General Secretary U Aye Ko, Chief of Staff General Saw Maung, and Prime Minister U Maung Maung Kha also reported back during the month, covering similar ground.

Pyithu Hluttaw Candidate

Apr. 23: Elections Commission Notification No. 242 announces U Khin Maung Yin as candidate for election to the Pyithu Hluttaw from Mandalay North-West Township in the by-elections to be held May 1-25. (WPD 4/24)

MILITARY

Cadets Graduate

Apr. 1: Chief of Staff General Saw Maung presided over the graduation of the 29th class at the Defence Services Academy in Maymyo. He said the cadets must "observe the traditions and customs of the indigenous people, [and] safeguard the lives and properties of the people always serving their interests." (WPD 4/2)

Insurgent Atrocities

Apr. 4: On Mar. 28, U Kyahe and his family, of No. 3 ward, Kungheng, were injured by a mine. On Mar. 27, Shan insurgents entered Pangnyaung Village, Hsipaw Township, killed two young men of Kyunyaiktaung Village and stole 8 horses and goods. (WPD 4/5)

Apr. 5: On Apr. 1, KNU insurgents mined and destroyed the Melan Creek bridge in Melan-ruk village, Bilan Township, and the Tanyinbin bridge. They also entered Sandaw Ywathitsu, burned 12 houses, killed one woman, and wounded two people. The bridges were repaired.

Also on Apr. 1, Mon insurgents fired at Phathein village from Ywathitkon in Kyaikmaraw Township, setting fire to 11 houses and killed three villagers. On Mar. 30, members of the BCP Insurgents No. 4046 Battalion entered Taungpyo village, Lawksauk Township, and extorted Ky 5,000; they then entered Satthay village, where they killed two villagers and captured three. (WPD 4/6)

Apr. 13: A woman was wounded by a mine at Thahtaygon village, Bilin Township, on Apr. 9. (WPD 4/16)

Apr. 18: KNU insurgents opened fire on three vehicles at Thayagon Village on Apr. 10, killing three women and wounding seven other passengers. On Mar. 29 a villager travelling on motorcycle near Kyaukneik village was captured and killed by KNU insurgents, who stole his Ky 2,000. (WPD 4/19)

Apr. 22: Mon insurgents on Apr. 16 opened fire with mortars on Monhaing village, Kawkareik Township, destroying 25 houses. On Apr. 10 One Kolapho, 35, of Naungkatoke village, Thaton Township, was injured by a mine while fishing near Kalukabachaung. On Apr. 11 U Sein Mya Maung, 40, of Kayinsu, Thayetkon village, Kya-in-Seikkyi Township, was seized and shot by Mon insurgents. (WPD 4/23)

Apr. 26: One villager was killed and another injured by a mine on Apr. 13 in Wangmai village, Kengtung Township. On Apr. 18, KNU insurgents from DO No. 2 battalion, coming from the east of Donthami Creek, kidnapped 17 young men from Peinnetaw and Min Lwin villages in Thaton Township. (WPD 4/27)

Pilots Graduated

Apr. 6: Sixteen air force cadets received their wings at the conclusion of Defence Services (Air) Pilot Training Course No. 49 at the Meiktila Air Force Training Base. Vice-Chief of Staff (Air) Major General Tin Tun presided. (WPD 4/7)

Insurgents Surrender

Apr. 6: 18 insurgents surrendered with their arms [dates not given, but presumably Mar. 1-16]. (WPD 4/7) / Apr. 7: 15 insurgents surrendered from Mar. 17-31. (WPD 4/8) [names and details given]

Opium Refineries Captured

Apr. 13: Operation Moe Hein Phase 12 has seized BCP and Wa opium refineries. BCP brigade 6, Wa, SSA, KIA, and Lahu insurgents formed an alliance to refine opium and smuggle heroin, blackmarketing and committing atrocities at San-chu, Danyawaddy, Lontawn, Naunle, Ma Khe-nu, Loi Manhtong, Loi Ma-un, Ma Hin Kao, Pang-tawn, Tak Ma-hin, Panpyet, and Pa-chi regions of Mongtung Township on the Thai border, and Loi Pan-phut and ta Malaing regions in Mong Hsat Township.

Beginning Mar. 19, columns of the No. 33 and 88 Light Infantry Divisions, and local units, attacked the enemy. Units led by the No. 33 LID captured the Ma Khe-nu, Ma Hin Kao, and Loi Ma-un camps of the Wa insurgents on Mar. 19; the Loi Man-Htong, Pang-Tawn and Tak Ma-hin camps; and opium refineries on Mar. 20; the San Htamein camp and opium refineries on Mar. 21; the Point 4887 camp on Mar. 28; and the Wa insurgent headquarters Pa-chi camp on Mar. 29.

Units led by the No. 88 LID captured the BCP brigade 6 Point 6420 camp on Mar. 20; the Naung Le camp and opium refinery on Mar. 22; the Danyawaddy and Lontawn camps and opium refinery on Mar. 23; the Point 6990 and San-chu camps on Apr. 8; the Loi Pan-phut camp on Apr. 9; and the Ta Malaing camp on Apr. 10.

Large quantities of opium refining equipment and chemicals were seized at the San Htamein and Tak Ma-hin camps. At the Wa Pa-chi headquarters, two helicopter pads were discovered, as well as electricity and water lines being connected with the border area.

There were 11 major battles and 33 skirmishes, during which 27 Burma Army soldiers were killed and 73 wounded. 57 insurgents were "captured dead" and one alive.

Seized were 78 weapons including one 82 mm mortar and three 60 mm mortars, five telecommunications sets, one motorcycle, 52,173 rounds of small arms ammunition, 218 large calibre shells/bombs, 18 magazines, three hand grenades, 293 mines, 62 rocket shells, and five walkie-talkies.

Chemicals and paraphernalia seized included 1,284 gallons of acid and liquid chemicals, three tons of soda powder, four opium weighing machines, 84 mixing basins, two gas cylinders, three stoves, 136 containers, etc. [map and photos] (WPD 4/16)

Basic Military Training

Apr. 22: "National defence is the bounden duty of each and everybody.... Recently youths including girls in Taunggyi Township completed a short-term basic military training course. This is one example among many.... In fact, military service is compulsory in many nations. The basic military training in itself has other virtues.... If we are to enjoy our fruits of labour, we must wipe out all covert and overt enemies. To realize this aim all must be prepared to work for security. Basic military training course will surely turn out persons who can shoulder national defence and security duties with the co-operation of the security personnel. (WPD editorial 4/22)

The Goat and the Dog

Apr. 22: In Mahawthahta Zat a goat and a dog once got along peacefully, writes Tun Zaw Htwe in a feature article. The goat stole meat for the dog from the royal kitchen, and the dog stole grass for the goat from the elephant shed. In the same way, the BCP (Burma Communist Party) and the Wa insurgents are on good terms.

Once the Wa and the BCP hated each other. The Kuominton (sic) (KMT) dominated the Wa after 1942, and settled down in force in 1946, introducing poppy cultivation. They recruited some Wa as mercenaries. In 1953 the KMT retreated from the southern Wa area, leaving behind some small armed groups as their legacy. Groups have fought over the Wa area to dominate the growing of poppy.

In 1968 the BCP entered the north-east area and won over Phone Kya Shin and the underground Kokang karkweye groups; the Somkaramang and Panwaiing groups from the Wa karkweye group fell under BCP sway. In 1970 the BCP moved into the Kokang area, and in 1971 expanded to the Wa area to the south, where they established their north-east military headquarters in 1972. The BCP launched large scale offensives against the Wa karkweye troops, the KMT remnants and the opium gangs in order to take over the opium business.

Up to Dec. 1972 there were 121 clashes, and 152 Wa's and 396 BCP's were killed. 20 Wa leaders and over 300 Wa nationals were also tortured and killed, in an effort to exterminate the Wa. Over 8,000 Wa refugees fled to the western sector of the Salween and sought Burma Army protection.

In 1973 a group headed by Wa Karkweye leader Maha-San went underground and joined with KMT remnant opium gangs to enter the opium business and oppose the BCP. In 1973-74 the BCP attacked the KMT remnants and captured many of their camps. They engaged secretly in the opium trade.

BCP opium activity became an open secret in Dec. 1980 when BCP No. 083 looted 100 viss from the BCP No. 768 brigade in the Wangnaunggyi area. Lahu insurgent Aevi, under BCP leadership, had poppies cultivated in the Mong Hsat area.

The Wa insurgents formed the "Wa Amyotha Aphwe Gyoke" (WAAG) with Maha San as chairman. Aik Shauk Si led the "Wa National Revolutionary Council". In 1983 Wa nationals under the WAAG name joined the Ma Da Ta led by KNU Nga Mya.

In 1984 the Loimwe [Loimaw] insurgents led by Hkunsu [Khun Sa] attacked the KMT remnants camp. But after the BCP decision at the Third Congress in Pangsan in 1985, ordering all households in the Kokang, Mongmaw, Mawhpa, Momhkkak, Monm Yawng, and Mangsat areas to grow opium poppies, the BCP attacked the Loimwe group of Hkunsu and thus helped the Wa insurgents, and the Loimwe insurgents retreated to an area near Lwelan in 1986.

Thus the BCP and Wa became allies. The BCP No. 6 brigade led by Deputy Brigade Commander Lay Kyaung, together with BCP Nos. 086, 087, and 927 battalions established footholds at the Musikwe, Tarmalaing, Lwepang, Hpat, Danyawaddy, and Sangsu camps in Mong Ton/Mong Hsat Township near the border. Now the Wa insurgents, "in consultation with the BCP", are engaged in the opium business in the Lwemanghtaung, Pantaung, Maheinkaung, Parchi, and Panhpyet areas and along the Kyethingathee Ridge.

Thus the Wa and the BCP are now friends like the goat and the dog. Together with the Wa they drove the Loimwe group led by Hkunsu from the Parchi/Panpyet area. The BCP sends to Sangsu opium both from the Wa area and elsewhere, where it is processed into heroin on a large scale. The KMT are selling the BCP opium abroad. BCP opium reaches the KMT through the Wa insurgents, and payment is in arms and ammunition needed by the BCP.

Karenni Insurgents Denounced
Apr. 23: A feature article entitled "Those giving trouble to people in Kayah State," by Nang Shin Htwe, discusses Karenni insurgents who, instigated by the KNDO, have been carrying out destructive activities in Kayah State. On Dec. 15, 1987, Karenni insurgents threatened road builders repairing the Dimawhao-Dawtamagyi Motor Road, near Htipokalo village, burnt down wooden bridges along the Loikaw-Mawchi Road, and destroyed the Bailey iron bridge. They planted mines in Pasawng and Bawlake Townships, and on Dec. 27 Ma Aye Myint, 17, lost her leg to one.

The insurgents forceably recruited youths in Dimawhso and Phruhso Townships, demanding one per village on pain of a Ky 10,000 fine. Villages also had to pay Ky 750 and provide 20 baskets of paddy for each recruit taken away. On Jan. 1, 1988, Ti Ren, alias Ti Ri, who "had returned to the legal fold", was killed after refusing to pay Ky 10,000 in Htipawso village, Phruhso Township. On Dec. 11, 1987, the Burma Army captured the Karenni Megahta camp near Hojitkarin village, Pasawng Township, killing four and capturing four rifles. Today the Karenni insurgents "are fleeing in disarray" and have turned to heroin processing near the Hwayum Creek, 10 miles north of Wan Ponglan. "If they keep on carrying out destructive acts, there is only one way for the Karenni insurgents to follow and this would ultimately bring about their doom." (WPD 4/23)

ECONOMIC

Co-op Contracts Signed
Mar. 31: Industrial and trade corporations signed contracts with eight State/Division Syndicates of Township Co-operatives in lower Burma, 140 Township Co-operative Societies, and 36 Station/In-service Co-operative Societies. (WPD 4/1)

Apr. 7: Contracts were signed for the 51st time between Co-operative Societies in Upper Burma and mills, factories, and trade corporations. (WPD 4/8)

Crop Substitution
Apr. 1: UNFDAC and the Burma Programme for Drug Abuse Control are working together to retrain former poppy growers in the cultivation of substitute crops. The program is divided into three five-year phases, which began in 1976 and will end in 1991. Six base stations, 11 forward stations, and two multisectorial farms were established in Shan, Kachin, and Chin States during the first and second phases. Two small forward stations have been promoted to Base Station status in Shan State in the third phase. They serve as demonstration sites, and grow seeds and seedlings for distribution. In 28 out of Shan State's 52 townships, annual crops such as paddy, wheat, corn, groundnut, sesame, potato, soyabean, and oil crops, and perennial crops such as coffee, tea, and oranges have been distributed, and over 22,000 acres have been developed. (WPD Editorial 4/1)

Telephone Service
Apr. 2: The telephone was first introduced to Burma in 1884, eight years after it was invented. In 1958 automatic service was made available, and in May 1978 communication by satellite was implemented. With the installation of an automatic exchange in Syria, there are now 24 towns where contact can be made by direct dialing, and there are over 61,000 telephone units in the country. Problems are that people talk too long, and make illicit trunk calls on office telephones. (WPD Editorial 4/2)

Accounts Officers Exam

Apr. 6: Written examinations will be held on Apr. 28-29 for the post of Accounts Officer, News and Periodicals Corporation (pay scale 450-25-750). Paper I is English and General Knowledge; Paper II is Ideology and Burmese. (WPD 4/7)

HEALTH

Smoking--The Bad Habit

Apr. 18: "Smoking involves both health and financial problems. Hard facts of smoking should be known to all--both smokers and non-smokers. Non-smokers ought to show every sign of opposition to smoking. Growing opposition and enhanced awareness will be effective in curbing or breaking the habit." (WPD editorial 4/18)

Bells of Burma

Apr. 4: The sixth in Khin Maung Nyunt's series tells "The Story behind King Tharrawaddy's Bell." The second largest bell in Burma, it stands on a raised brick platform in the north-east corner of Rangoon's Shwedagon Pagoda. Iron posts support a three-tiered roof, with a gold gilt finial and a two-tier portico shading a flight of steps. The bell hangs on iron beams buttressed by two massive lotus-crowned poles in the center of the hall.

Known as the "King Tharrawaddy' Bell", its official title is "Maha Ti Sadda Ghanda", or "The Bell which produces a great sound." Cast in 1204 BE (AD 1824), the bell weighs 25,940 viss, 49 ticals (about 49 tons). It is 24' 1 1/2" in circumference, 7'8" in diameter at the mouth, 8' high, and 1'5" thick. (The Mingun Bell weighs 90 tons). In good condition, the bell produces a solemn but pleasant sound.

King Tharawaddy (1837-46) is referred to in the Chronicles as Shwebo Min; before becoming King he was called Tharrawaddy Myosa, after his fief in Tharrawaddy, and was called by foreigners Tharrawaddy Min although his regnal title was "Siri pavaraditya Lokadhipati Vijaya Maha Dhamma Rajadhiraja."

After discussing in detail the early history of King Tharrawaddy, the article describes his efforts to build a new city at Rangoon, farther from the river than that of Alaungpaya, in what is now Dagon Township. The new town was officially named "Aung Mye Yan Hnin" but was commonly called "Ukkalapa". A main road from the shore to the palace was, and is, called "Lan ma daw" or Royal Main Road. The Palace, on the present Maidan Ground, faced east and was called the "Mye Nan Aung Char." Northeast of the palace was the Maha Dhamma Yanti (Ain daw ya pagoda) of Prince Pagan. Troops, monasteries, ordination halls and water tanks surrounded the palace.

On the 10th waxing day of Thadingyut, BE 1203 (October 1841), an earth mould was made for casting the bell. On Feb. 22, 1841, the King left Rangoon to return to his capital in the north, travelling on the Royal barge "Yatana Yin Mun." The casting of the bell was done on the 5th waning of Tabodwe, BE 1204 (1843), but because of a cholera epidemic the King did not return to see it. (WPD 4/4)

Apr. 11: The continuation of the article on King Tharrawaddy's Bell describes its 100 lines of inscriptions in Burmese and Pali, divided into four pages. Most of them concern the life of Lord Buddha. Others are historical, including the following excerpts:

"In the 1380th year after the Demise of Lord Buddha, in the year 1198 Burmese Era 6th waxing day of Kason, King of the Kings ruled the Kingdom where Buddha Sasana flourished, where seven rivers Thalawaddy, Duhtawaddy, Irrawaddy, Zawgyi, Makhayar, Sampa and Panlong flow, to which Thunaparanta, Tampadipa and Camboza pay tributes, Zeyapura, Ratanapura and Amarapura merged into a union which His Majesty reigns like sun."

"At this capital of Amarapura in the Buddhist year 2385 in the Burmese year 1203 on Monday 7th waning moon of Taungthali at over 1 pm the most auspicious hour with Chinese, Tartars, Manipuris, Assamese, Indians, Siamese, Linzinese etc. paying supplications to his Majesty, the King and his royal family made a great progress to three Kingdoms of Ramanya Desa. The King and the royal family were carried on the royal barge 'Pyigyi Mun'. The Court and the retinue followed with their boats and ships via the Irrawaddy river. To the west of Tampaguta Hill, on which is the Pagoda in which were enshrined sacred hairs brought by the two merchant brothers, at a place 300 tars (measurement of land) away was the Palace constructed. The King and the royal family resided at this palace. In the year 1203 on Saturday the 3rd waxing moon of Tazaungmon, at 1 am began the spade work of the sounding for a new town. It covered an area of 1800 tars. 3200 ticals of pure gold were beaten to gilt the Shwe Dagon Pagoda from the bottom to the top canopy."  [The moulding and casting of the bell are described, under the supervision of Wun Mingyi Maha Sithu and Mingyi Maha Min Kyaw Thinkhayar, the Minister of Bronze Smithy and Arsenal.] (WPD 4/11)

Konbaung Period Writers

Apr. 4: The eighth in Aung Moe's series considers "The Reverend Rectors;" monks who contributed to literature in the early Konbaung Period.

Shin Atula Yatha was born Maung Pan Twe in Okshit village, and became thathanabaing primate under King Alaungpaya, at the age of 38. An anecdote is told of his chastising another monk for giving the King a formula for ink, saying that palm leaf manuscripts do not last and are liable to be misread. He was forced to revert to laity at the age of 70, in King Bodawpaya's reign.

Second Kyaw Aung San Htar Sayadaw, a native of Ngazinyaing village, was a disciple of the First, and took charge of the monastery when the latter died in 1753. He wrote three major works: the "Nawharata Pakathani," a major encyclopedia of the Burmese language which has become a handbook for all serious scholars; an elaboration of a magadhan dictionary compiled in Pali by Caturingabala; and a treatise... on versification in Pali called "Sunn Kyann", written in 1789 at the age of 70.

Taungdwin Sayadaw Khingyi Hpyaw was very erudite and wrote 37 works in his life of 40 years. They covered astrology, alchemy, chemistry, pharmacology, meteorology, anthropology, cosmology, mythology, and scriptures and linguistics. Born Maung Hpyaw, of U Po Pye and Daw Kyar, in Padigon village, near Myo Lulin in Taungdwingyi township, he was a child prodigy who later studied at Pagan. He came to Sagaing in 1753 at the invitation of Crown Prince Naung Daw Gyi, and died there in 1762 at the age of 40. He wrote the "Min Letwe Nawrahta Shaukton", or answers to questions posed by Min Letwe Nawrahta on diverse subjects. He was also a musical prodigy. (WPD 4/4)

Apr. 11: The 9th article discusses "The Eminent Educators", specifically:

Sarit Sayadaw was a disciple of Kyet Thun Khinn Sayadaw, and was 54 when Alaungpaya became King and raised him to the rank of raza guru, in charge of the annual patamabyan scriptural examinations. At the age of 72 he was offered the office of thanhanabaing primate. He was an outspoken man, who disliked being a king's teacher.

Tantabin Sayadaw was Shin Nanda Marlar, a native of Setoktara, who became thanhanabaing during the reign of Hsinbyu Shin. He was also known as Tilawka Guru Sayadaw, and wrote two treatises for students taking the patamabyan examinations.

Min O Sayadaw was a native of Pettaw, aged 45 when Alaungpaya became King. He educated many who later became thanhanabaings. He died at 83.

Manle Sayadaw was 39 at the beginning of the dynasty and a native of Tasbe Manle, born Maung Tha Gyi. He became raza guru in the reign of Singu Min, and during his tenure a plenary congregation of sayadaws decided that monks should wrap themselves in their robes when leaving a monastery, rather than merely putting a folded robe on their bare shoulders. He was a disciplinarian who became thanhanabaing in King Bodawpaya's reign, and died in 1807 at the age of 93. There was a second famous Manle Sayadaw during the Konbaung Period.

Sonta Sayadaw was 35 when Alaungpaya became King, a native of Sonta village born Maung San Belu. Before moving to the capital, he worked in Bankyi circle, Hsinbyugyun and Salin areas, persuading local monks not to travel in ox-drawn carriages or use umbrellas. He was responsible for the decision on wearing robes outside the monastery, and wrote nine scriptural works before dying at the age of 75.

Minywa Sayadaw came from Wayindok village in Madaya township, and was called Shin Zargara. He became Singu Min's guru at the age of 30, and later thanhanabaing under King Bodawpaya. He followed the vinaya law to the letter, never wearing slippers or carrying an umbrella, and collecting daily alms until he was over 70. He died in 1804 at the age of 81. (WPD 4/11)

Apr. 18: The tenth in the series on Konbaung Period Writers tells of Wetmasoot Nawade (Poet Laureate) under King Bodawpaya. He was born U Nu, headman of Ywawe village, north of Sagaing. Named Achidaw Wun (in charge of nursing) to a daughter of the Prince of Prome in 1788, he composed the "Hsinbyu Shin Mai E-chin" in honor of his ward. In 1796 he wrote a mawgun in honor of the dredging of Lake Meiktila, and in 1798 a paik-son on the marriage of the Prince of Pakhan and the Princess of Shwegu. Later he wrote ratus for all ceremonial occasions, and was named Nawade, with Wetmasoot as his fief, in 1806. He was given additional honors and titles, and died in 1842 at the age of 84. Among the mawguns ascribed to him are those concerning: Meiktila Lake; Sanda Muni; Conquest of Rakhine; Conquest of Assam; Arrival of Chinese Embassy; Bagyidaw's Coronation; Villathini; Lawkavigu; Bavari; Thamondrika; Mingun Palace; Elahangu; Conquest of Tavoy; and Muni Shit Su. (WPD 4/18)

Apr. 25: The 11th in Aung Moe's series is entitled "Writers from Shwebo" and concerns poets from that town.

U Toe was a monk who served Kings Hsinbyu Shin and Singu as a composer of songs and saungbas, that may be translated as "essays, news-letters and belles-lettres." When Bodawpaya became King, U Toe was 31 years old and entered the Crown Prince's service, writing an e-chin in honor of his son. During the 1784 campaign against Myohaung, U Toe sent the Prince kye-say ratus. On his return U Toe wrote a rakan on the Ramayana, gaining his place in literature. Another poet, U Lann, composed a rakan making fun of it, but was suppressed. Later, U Toe compiled an erudite key to one of Nat Shin Naung's ratus. He died in 1796 at the age of 45.

Thar-chin Saya U Tha Aung came from Myedu village. He became a Court Bard and Herald, under the title of Min Zeya Rantameik. He composed the "Utema Thar-chin", the "Padar Sari Thar-chin" and the "Zeinza Marna Thar-chin."

Eh-chin Saya U Yar revived the eh-chin form of compositions read in chorus or a peculiar gutteral voice, beginning every stanza with an address to a particular person. Originally an attendant to one of Singu Min's queens, Bodawpaya appointed him attendant to the Pindale Prince and later bearer of the betel-box and water flagon to the Consort of the Crown Prince. He later became wun of Moktama (Martaban) where he died in 1785. He composed eh-chins and also ratus, pyos, and lootars. Only his lootar on the Twelve Seasons, and four eh-chins on the first through fourth Buddhist Synods survive.

Literary Workers' Meeting
Apr. 5: The Third Central General Meeting of the Literary Workers Organization of Burma opened, with 611 of the 633 eligible present. In his opening speech, LWO Chairman U Win Pe (Mya Zin) said that there were now 3,425 writers and 806 journalists, for a total of 4,231, in 136 Township Literary Workers Organizations and 24 Township Literary Workers Organizing Committees. He said that BSPP policy on literature and journalism "underscored the need to bring out literature which systematically combined the national style and socialist essence."

A report, and an organizational and a financial amendment were presented and "discussed in support" by 19 delegates.

LWO Vice Chairman U Khin Maung Aye, in response, called for improvement in the LWO quarterly Sarpay Loktha Magazine. He said a shop would be opened in the front row of the Bogyoke Market "as soon as possible", and that financial aid during bereavements had been doubled in 1987 and would be increased as funds permitted. As to Burmese literature, only the literature which is of benefit to the reader public should be published and those which would be harmful to the readers should not be published." The organizational amendment was approved. (WPD 4/6)

Apr. 11: "It has been requested to refrain from throwing water on postmen who will be delivering letters on the Thingyan Athet Day (15-4-88) and on those who will be delivering telegrams during the Thingyan festival days." (WPD 4/12)

Social Welfare Benefits Raised

Apr. 22: The Social Security Board held its meeting No. 1/88, attended by its Chairman Deputy minister for Labour and for Social Welfare U Pau Khan Thang. It increased the cash provided for funeral expenses from Ky 200 to Ky 500, and raised lump sum compensations for occupational accidents. (WPD 4/23)

Bird Identification

Apr. 24: A two-part article by Hmugyi Hla Aung discusses bird identification, using as a test case a strange bird which arrived at the Rangoon Zoological Gardesn on Jan. 14. The bird, a vulture or hawk, was one of four signed in Mawlamyainggyun Township on Dec. 27, 1987, and captured in Mai-ta-laing village. (WPD 4/24) // Apr. 25: After examining the bird and descriptions of vultures, Hmugyi Hla Aung concludes that it is a Cinereous or European Black Vulture (Aegyptus monachus). He ends with a story from Volume II of U Kala Mahayazawingyi, telling how a message on the death of Minye-Kyawzwa of Dallah was sent to Ava by a tame vulture belonging to Pinle-kye Thinga-raja, which covered the distance of 400 miles in nine hours. (WPD 4/25)

Hlawga Gardens Opened

Apr. 24: The Rangoon City Development Committee announced the opening to the public, on April 30, of the Hlawga Gardens beside the Prome Road 16 miles away from Rangoon. It has restaurants, drinking water, benches and latrines for visitors. "The authorities have reminded the public to keep the pleasantness of the Gardens and to take measures for prevention of fire and the cleanliness of the Hlawga Lake. Those who will visit the Hlawga Gardens can also worship the Thadukan Pagoda." (WPD 4/25)
